A Writer Has A Bigger Job Than To Express Himself, Says Rosen

By RAYLYN PENNEY

Victor Rosen, author of several million published words in the fields of biography, magazine writing, public relations, collaboration, ghosting, reviewing, crime writing and even poetry, seems to be one of the few American writers of his generation who has absolutely never held jobs jerking sodas, driving a taxi, picking oranges, or working for a circus.

He simply hasn't had the time. He's been too busy writing since well before graduating in English literature from Harvard in 1931.

Vic has written and edited his way through a vast number of enviable jobs and assignments, brought distinction on himself several times here and abroad for such things as his work on Harold (The Best Years of Our Lives) Russel's biography, Victory in My Hands, and is now temporarily settled on El Bosque Drive in Del Monte Forest while he turns out a historical novel he's had in mind for 25 years—a book based on the life and legends of Joaquin Murieta.

He calls the forthcoming work Wild Justice, from a Bacon Essay quotation, "Revenge is a kind of wild justice, which the more a man's nature runs to, the more ought law to weed it out." This appears to fit the story of California's most infamous bandit all right but, as the author says, "Who knows but what the publisher will change the title to something like Pride and Prejudice."

After some trips to the mining country where Joaquin is supposed to have begun his grisly career, Victor has settled down to the writing task which will take most of this year. He moved to the Peninsula and started the project last April.

Victor Rosen says writing is hard work, a craft, a lonely job. He says the main trouble with young writers today is a bogus idea that the be-all and end-all of art is "to express myself."

Any real artist has a bigger job than this, he claims, and that is to communicate something. This is the highest and most rewarding form of self-expression, to see your own ideas planted in someone else's mind. The writer with no syntax has a tough time communicating, even though he may be expressing himself to his own satisfaction.

Of course, when a trend like undisciplined writing gets going, he explains, the readers and critics all are afraid to admit they're not getting any message from the writers. They're all afraid to take on the role of the honest little boy in The Emperor's New Clothes.

Also, a writer never meets the interesting people his friends imagine he does, his life is no round of partying. Actually, a writer is a dull fellow.

We can hardly go along with this last opinion of Mr. Rosen's since he himself is anything but a dull fellow. He is sociable, an expert raconteur and occasionally a comic of the deadpan school. He even smokes in an interesting way, choosing in inevitable, orderly succession, a pipe, a cigarette in a carved ivory holder and a Philippine cigar, then back to the pipe. A companion watching him can

POST OFFICE MAY STAY WHERE IT IS

James Lee, owner of the post office land and building, and Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Hanssens, owners of the property at the rear are talking over ways and means of enlarging the post office building to meet its needs.

Tom Perry is assisting in negotiations.

They hope to have a definite proposal to offer the post office lands and buildings official when he arrives from San Francisco next week.

Tree Destruction Carmel's Greatest Loss In Past Storm

Carmel lost seven trees in the storm which raged Sunday night and Monday. There was property damage from flying branches, power failure, TV cable dead for a night and a day, storm drains unable to take the water from sluicing rain, gardens torn to tatters and blanketed with needles and branches.

Trees which crashed into the streets, tearing loose electric and telephone lines, bringing out the police to block off traffic until the street department could remove the debris were located at:

San Antonio between Second and Third; San Antonio and Ninth; Camino Real between Ocean and Seventh; Eleventh between Camino Real and Casanova, Rio and Ridgewood Road, Ninth between Carmelo and Camino Real, Carmelo and Santa Lucia.

Santa Lucia had to be blocked off in several places because of a litter of branches torn from cypresses.

Mrs. R. S. Johnson reported that a branch had blown through the window of her home at Sixth, north of Palou, and a police patrolman helped her board up the break.

Mrs. Stanley Cummings' car stalled in the flood at Junipero and

Sanitary Board Appoints Wilder To New Manager Job

Monday night the Carmel Sanitary District board created a new job, general manager, and hired Cree Wilder to fill it at a salary of $550 a month. (See legal publication, page 11, this issue.)

Mr. Wilder will also take over the duties of secretary, permitting Chris A. Neddersen to escape from the fill-in job he took at the retirement of William Satchell. Nedderson, who goes into his third retirement March 15, recommended the creation of the general manager position, pointing out the expansion of the district in recent years to an assessed valuation of $21,924,900 and an operating budget of $61,000. Cree will be largely concerned with the field work phase of his job until March 15.

In addition to the secretarial work, the manager will have "general supervision of administrative affairs of the district," will hire and fire employes except the engineer, legal advisor and secretary (if manager and secretary duties are split at some later time); recommend to the board "such measures as he may deem necessary" and help prepare the budget.

Cree Wilder, a native of Minnesota, came to the Peninsula in 1924, worked for the various plumbing firms, lastly the ADH

Plans Announced For Forest Theater Fiftieth Anniversary Celebration

The newly created Carmel Arts Commission received its first assignment at last night's council meeting: to process Herbert Heron's request for Forest Theater dates for a production to celebrate the golden anniversary of the beautiful and historic theater. Herbert Heron is a founder of the Forest Theater, and for many years the producer of the annual Shakespeare Festival.

He wishes to celebrate the golden anniversary with "a final fling at Shakespeare."

The Pine Cone will bring out a special edition honoring Mr. Heron and the Forest Theater.

Another theatrical group has also asked for the use of the Forest Theater during the summer to produce Robinson Jeffer's Medea with Ruth Warshawsky in the title role. Mayor John Chitwood reported that the group said they would seek dates that would not in any way inconvenience Mr. Heron.

Requested golden anniversary celebration dates are August 20-21-22; 27-28-29; September 3-4-5-6 for performances, and rehearsal and construction time from July 20.

The Arts Commission will hold its organizational meeting within the next two weeks on a date not yet arranged. The commissioners are: Geza St. Galy, Laurence B. Barretto, Nelo S. Drizari, Gilbert R. Boyer, Vaughn Shoemaker, Mrs. James H. Cooke and Mrs. Parker Hall.

Schultz Motel Pool, Second On Junipero, Given P. C. Permit

Charles and Dorothy Schultz were granted a building permit for a motel swimming pool yesterday afternoon when the planning commission met in adjourned session to consider this matter and hold a public hearing before recommending that the city council extend the interim zoning ordinance until December 31, 1959.

The Schultz motel, on the former Bettie Greene Stables property at the northeast corner of Junipero Street and Fifth Avenue, has been a controversial matter before the planning commission for two years. Latest problem presented by the proposed motel development occurred when the owners asked permission to build a swimming pool along the Junipero Street frontage of the property, with plans for re-arranged parking, driveways and planting.

The Land Use committee of the planning commission favored building of the pool provided planting on the south and west of the site met with their corrections. The Public Improvements committee favored elimination of one more off-street parking place to permit more landscaping if the pool were built. Mr. and Mrs. Schultz already had been allowed to eliminate two off-street parking places for increased landscaping, giving a ratio of 16 parking places to 18 dwelling units. The Land Use committee did not wish to decrease this ratio. Their committee report was adopted by the commission. Then Building Inspector Floyd Adams demanded a resolution granting a building permit for the pool.

"Do you need a permit for a

Council Tidbits

The city council plodded along to midnight at its meeting last night, working at routine but essential matters, such as approving earned salary step raises for eight city employees and pumping blood from the general funds to specific budget categories that needed it.

They gave the 1958 dog tag owners a break, holding first reading on an ordinance which will make dog licensing day May 1 instead of January 1. So 1958 dog licenses will be valid until April 30, at no extra cost for the extra three months. Newcomers, who do not have 1958 licenses, will have to get a license and pay for a quarter. The county and other cities will shortly pass May 1 dog license fiscal year ordinances. Object—people have more money on May 1 than right after Christmas.

Don Craig and Albert Lester were re-appointed to the library board.

Herb Blanks, Ernest Leffingwell and Jim Buffington were appointed to the Forest Commission, two others to be named later.

Council did some spending: authorized purchase of street painting machine for the street depart-

Open House For New H. S. Class Rooms Set For January 21

The high school students returned to school Monday morning to find that Santa had left them 12 new classrooms. The surprise was not very complete. Most of them had figured out what the hammering was about all this semester. They walked right in and started reciting.

Parents and friends of the schools, and interested taxpayers, will have an opportunity to see the new rooms—one of them is a science laboratory—when the High School P. T. A. holds open house January 21.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Bissantz, presidents of the H. S. P. T. A., will receive visitors in the music room at 7:30 o'clock. Then guests will visit the new rooms and parents will find teachers in attendance to answer questions, general and particular. The party will conclude with coffee and doughnuts in the music room from 8:30 to 9:00 o'clock.

Meanwhile, the glitter of their new surroundings does not blind the students to approaching "dead week" January 26, prelude to end of semester examinations, starting February 2.

SPORTS SCHEDULE

Tonight (Thursday) — Carmel Youth Center vs. Naval Air at PG Gym, 7:30 o'clock.

Friday, January 9—Carmel High Varsity, Lightweight, and JV at Gonzales, 5:00 o'clock.

Saturday, January 10—Carmel High Varsity, Lightweight, and JV at Watsonville, 5:00 o'clock.

PADRE CAGERS AT GONZALES FRIDAY NIGHT

Carmel High's front-running basketball squads trek to Gonzales tomorrow night for a triple-header with the always-tough Spartans. Coach Dick Lawitzke's junior varsity crew kicks off the night's activity at 5:00 o'clock, the lightweights take over at 7:00, and the varsity tip is slated for 8:30.

The Gonzales varsity is led by pivotman Cooper, a 6-6 rebounder who is deadly from the inside shooting positions. Cooper is considered the best center in the B-division and it should be quite a duel when he hooks up with Russ Wise, Carmel's junior pivotman. Outside of Cooper, the Spartans are a very small team with good speed and some fine outside shooters. Coach Buddy Guiterrez is high on his club this season and would like nothing better than to upset the favored Padres.

Carmel's varsity looked very good in its only league game, drubbing the San Lorenzo Cougars in a game which saw the starters used sparingly. Coach Dan Yurkovich plans to go with his regular starting quintet of Bill Hicks, Russ Wise, Frank Wallace, Dale Dawson and Dennis Peavey. The number two unit of Chris and John Wilkin, Walt Helm, David Farr and Craig Smith has been improving with every practice session and gives the Padres a solid reserve unit.

Carmel's lightweight squad is undefeated in regular play this season, edging San Lorenzo in the league-opener and clipping Lincoln of San Jose in a practice game. The Little Padres are a swift-moving aggregation led by speed-burners Al Dahlstrand and Mike Draper. Mike Dunham and Jim Brown give the Babes good rebound strength and Bud Cunningham is a steady playmaker.

In its only outing, the Carmel junior varsity surprised the Junipero Serra jayvees by driving to a convincing victory. Coach Lawitzke has an aggressive, hustling crew which is tough on the boards and tenacious on defense. Pat Boyle, Ron Faia and Toby Edson make up a good shooting front line with Tom Green and Fred Bucher setting up the plays from the backline. Paul Rice, Dave Hansen, Jim Aitken, Doyle Clayton, Mike Cook and Curt Van Arsdale round out the junior varsity squad.

While the Padres are tackling the Spartans at Gonzales the other league schools will also be busy as Live Oak journeys to Pacific Grove and King City makes the long haul to San Lorenzo.

CROSBY PRO-AM SLATED FOR PEBBLE BEACH JANUARY 15

With a new format which includes more play at the Pebble Beach course, the 1959 Bing Crosby Pro-Amateur Golf Tournament is slated to unfold at the Monterey Peninsula Country Club, Cypress Point, and Pebble Beach courses on January 15 through 18. The Crosby Tournament is the richest golf tourney on the west coast with $35,000 going to the individual pros and $15,000 to be sliced up by the pro-amateurs. All the proceeds from Bing's great show are ticketed for charity with the Monterey Peninsula Youth Centers already flourishing as a result of help from the Crosby Tournament.

One hundred-fifty pro-amateur teams will start swinging next Thursday with each team playing 18 holes at the three tournament courses. In past years, the first two days' play was held at the Country Club and Cypress Point with Pebble Beach reserved for the finals. Each golfer will get a shot at the tricky Pebble Beach layout under this year's setup.

Billy Casper, winner of the 1958 Crosby, will be back to defend his title against the world's top golfers. Favorites to unseat the San Diego swinger will be Ken Venturri, winner of this year's Los Angeles Open, along with Dow Finsterwald, Art Wall, Mike Souchak, and National Open Champ Tommy Bolt. Winningest amateurs helping out the pros will be Roger Kelly of Los Angeles and Lefty O'Doul of San Francisco.

Kelly won with Sam Snead in 1947 and teamed with Jay Hebert to finish in front last year. O'Doul, the old Giant slugger, won with Bill Nary in 1949 and was locked up in a tie as Walter Burkem's partner in 1954. However, polished golf isn't the only attraction at the gala Crosby tournament where everyone seems to have fun. Screen stars, sports champions and business tycoons will be on hand to take their swings in the Crosby links festival.

ABC-TV will telecast tournament play from Pebble Beach in Sunday's final play. Telecast time will be from 2:30 to 4:00 o'clock with host Bing moving about the course to provide the commentary.

THROUGH THE HOOP

Carmel Youth Center's lightweight hoop squad entered the Monterey Holiday Teenage Basketball Tournament last week and copped the third-place trophy, won the sportsmanship award, and placed Larry Dufur on the all-tournament team. The Youth Center sprouts clipped the Monterey Fishbenders, 50 to 27, in the third-place finals as Dufur hit for 12 points, Scott Forbes picked up 11, and Phil O'Shea came through with 10. Gene Bartlett, George Crispo and Fritz Scheffer also saw action for the YC squad.

Coach Jack Giles pits his Youth Center varsity in league play tonight against the Naval Air Station quintet at the Pacific Grove High gym. Game time is 7:30 o'clock. The YC varsity is manned by Bob Durbrow, David Gray, Charley Dawson, Dick Jennings, Fred Bruggeman and Art Wilkerson.

Carmel's annual Christmas Tournament which features the Padre alumni was dominated by the class of '56 which had George Wightman, Mike Mosolf, Bill McCormack, David Gray, Bob Wise and Bob Michaels at home for hoop action. Most of these lads played on the 1955-56 championship team and have kept in good shape while serving in the service.

Coach Pete Peletta's Lobo squad bounced back after the disastrous Glendale trip by splitting a pair with Hancock JC and the Cal Poly Frosh. The classy Hancock club clipped the Lobos rather handily but the MPC gang showed good form in beating the Frosh. The harsh head-for-home treatment Pete gave the squad at Glendale should pay off with better morale as the season progresses.

The Lobos entertain Reedley JC at Monterey High gym this Saturday night and tackle arch-rival Hartnell next Tuesday night.

Carmel High goes after another big one this Saturday night, journeying to Watsonville for a triple-header with the Wildcats. Watsonville has been in a basketball slump for the last two seasons but are on the improve as evidenced by the Wildcats' recent victory over Monterey. Game times at Watsonville are 5:30, 7:00 and 8:30 o'clock.

Rosen Says Writer Has Bigger Job Than Self - Expression

get fairly wrought up wondering if he's ever going to get absent-minded and smoke the Philippine cigar right after the pipe or the cigarette right after the cigar. But apparently he never does.

Lighting his pipe, Mr. Rosen told us about a recent two-year stint in Hollywood where he wrote a biography of Charles Coburn, living in the Coburn home for a time.

Earlier in his career he edited trade papers, edited Radio Guide and Screen Guide in Chicago, was managing editor for Hillman publications in New York City (his birthplace), and has done public relations work for Bruno Walter, Richard Tauber, Paul Whiteman, Benny Goodman, Count Basie, Eddie Cantor, Burns and Allen, Jascha Heifetz and was P. R. man for Orson Welles at the very time Welles tossed his verbal hand grenade on the until-then quiet Campbell Soup program and became a celebrity. (Victor insists the Martian hoax was an honest misjudgment, no publicity project, and he should know.)

Lighting a cigarette, he told us his silver cigarette case was a gift of Admiral Franco Maugeri, head of the Italian Navy during World War II, with whom Vic Rosen collaborated after the war, on the Maugeri autobiography, From the Ashes of Disgrace (Harcourt, Brace).

The book on which he collaborated with amputee war veteran and actor, Harold Russell, published by Ferrar, Straus and Cudahy, was republished in multiple languages by the State Department for distribution abroad.

Particularly in France the name Victor Rosen is among top favorite crime writers because of A Gun in His Hand, based on the story of Francis (Two-Gun) Crowley, who died at 19 in the electric chair and whose last words were advice to his executioner: "You haven't got the straps tight enough," and Dark Plunder, the equally fateful story of Vincent (Mad - Dog) Coll, prohibition - era gangster. Victor recently had word the former book is now being brought out in England.

Perhaps the only really long period in author Rosen's life he did not spend writing or researching was during the war when he turned down public relations commissions in favor of joining the horse cavalry, which was even then moribund as a branch of the service. When it disbanded, he became a medic, serving in England and in North Africa on Eisenhower's staff, later running a field hospital in Italy.

Mr. Rosen has certainly done a monumental number of writing jobs. We don't pretend to list them all, but we don't want to leave out the 1956 Bantam book, Analyze Yourself, by Prince Leopold Lowenstein and William Gerhardi, as adapted by Victor Rosen. It's partly a series of self-tests, which we're planning to take as soon as possible. Samples: Have you ever felt you were of more exalted birth than your parents, or that there was some unsolved mystery about your birth? Do you place much importance on your relationship with your doctor, hairdresser, barber, dressmaker or tailor, or don't you particularly care?

Then there's a book of verse by Victor Rosen of which the author says, "No amount of money could bring me to open the cover." It's called Wind-Tossed Leaves and it was published when he was 17.

But of all his millions of words, Vic says he believes he upset more tempers and caused more ruckus with an eight-word movie review he once wrote for a monthly literary magazine. It was on Ivan The Terrible, the film classic which is even now scheduled by Monterey Peninsula College for a showing in the spring. But Vic won't be there.

"Ivan the Terrible," the brief review went, "lives up to its name."

Two Newcomers In Cast For New Play At Circle Saturday

Saturday evening Andre Roussin's The Little Hut will open at the Golden Bough Circle Theatre. The comedy of love on a desert island will star Bud Houghton, Elizabeth Johnstone and Ross Latimer in the roles of husband, wife and lover, respectively.

Houghton is known locally for theater and radio work, and has made notable appearances at the Circle in The Man on a Stick and The Living Room.

Miss Johnstone will be appearing in Carmel for the first time. She has played with repertory companies in Scotland and England, at the Phoenix Theatre in New York, the Barter Theatre in Virginia and Atlantic City's Quarterdeck Theatre. She is a graduate of London's Royal Academy of Dramatic Art.

Latimer is also a professional actor newly arrived on the Peninsula. He has had leading roles on Broadway, on television, on radio and in films. He played opposite Mae West in Catherine Was Great, and has been leading man to Loretta Young and Laraine Day on TV. Such recent films as Gunfighters, Off Limits and Jackpot have found him cast with Gregory Peck, James Stewart, Bob Hope and Mickey Rooney. He was co-star (but not, he hastens to add, the title character) in the movie, It, the Monster From Outer Space.

Alan Bryan and Jerry Zellhoefer complete the cast in the roles of a native chieftain and a monkey, the only other inhabitants of Roussin's island paradise.

After Saturday's opening, The Little Hut will play on Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings through February 15.

BOX G-1

Carmel, California
January 2, 1959

Dear Editor:

Orchids to the Carmel Police Department.

While somewhat belated I feel sure you can use my little story.

As a comparative newcomer as a resident of Carmel, I must pay them this tribute, which they so worthly deserve.

On this, my first Christmas season in your beautiful town, I entertained guests from the Eastbay over the Christmas Holidays.

When I saw them off to Monterey on our little bus, I left my purse on the bench at their point of departure. Having my dog on her leash I did not miss the purse until I arrived home. This was somewhat of a shock because said purse, besides a small amount of cash, contained my check book, pen, and several identifying credentials.

In desperation I called the Police Department—with no hope whatever, of recovering the lost purse. After describing the missing property, I was informed they would see what they could do.

Within 15 minutes I received a phone call stating the lost purse had been found and that an officer would contact me during the evening. Hardly had I hung up the phone, when a knock on my door revealed a handsome member of the Police Force with said pocketbook over his arm. No questions asked except "Ma'am is this the missing pocketbook?"

The purse was returned without even the loss of the few dollars cash it contained.

I know you can't bribe the Police Department with rewards, but it would make me very happy if you would let me know what I might do for them that would express my appreciation. Maybe you could give them a word of praise in your paper.

I do know that the folks who make Carmel their home, are safe in the hands of our duly appointed officers and officials.

My very best wishes to all who help make Carmel the most wonderful town in the U.S.A.

Sincerely,
Frances I. Gilbert.

County supervisors passed a resolution Monday asking for state legislation to create a second department of the Monterey-Carmel Municipal Court. Supervisor Burt Talcott of Salinas wanted to include a provision to eliminate the traffic office in Carmel and the Pacific Grove justice court, also to bring into Monterey-Carmel Municipal Court jurisdiction the southern down coast region. The other supervisors talked him out of it.

However, Talcott got in a no vote on the re-election of Chester Deaver to chairmanship of the board. He said the chairmanship should not be held two years in succession by the same supervisor.

They received a letter from James Birch, newly-elected tax collector, which requested that he be paid the tax collector's salary of $850 per month. Before election the supervisors cut the salary to $100 per month in the hope that nobody would run and they could eliminate the office. Legally they cannot raise the salary during Birch's term if they wanted to, but Birch maintains that they illegally reduced it, and he will seek a court ruling to that effect.

Supervisors said good-bye to William Redding, retiring after 20 years on the board, and welcomed new supervisor Harold Henry of King City.

At Monday night's water district board meeting, Ed Coffin reported that he had negotiated a loan with Bank of America and The American Trust for $25,000 at three and a half per cent interest for three years, to cover operating expenses of the board.

The stay-at-home board members heard reports of the travellers on their visits to other municipal-owned water systems around the state and authorized Loring K. Warner and James Patton to continue looking over engineering firms in San Francisco to conduct a survey of the California Water and Telephone Company properties.

Art Student Life

BY E. CASHION MAC LENNAN

Light-hearted memoirs of a light-hearted time. A Carmel artist recalls her art school days in St. Louis, New York, Chicago and Paris.

PART 4 — PARIS

After an interval, Europe was our destination. In Paris, during the fall and winter, I again went to Art school; in the morning to Julian Academie ("pour hommes" to distinguish it from a branch for-women-only located near L'Etoile); in the afternoon to the Grande Chaumiere. Thus I had the advantage of the criticisms of different masters.

To get a good location at Julian's I had to start the day early, especially on Mondays. On that day a new "pose" began at 8:00 o'clock, even though it was still dark and usually cloudy and cold, the accumulation of dirt on the skylights increasing the gloom of the room. On that morning our work for the past week was lined up on the wall, and the one who had turned in the best composition was given the choice of seats.

He or she usually took one near the huge iron stove, the only heat in the room, with a clear view of the model. The rest quickly grabbed the best locations they could, marking their names on the floor with chalk, giving them proprietorship to that place for the week. I was happy one day when my composition "The Family"—mother, child and dog—was judged the best. The only criticism I received was that all the figures seemed a little underfed. The most exuberant criticism we ever received from Monsieur Laurens, the director and nephew of the founder, as he looked at our work was "pas mal," and I was proud when he so characterized mine.

The students at Julian were from many countries. I was attracted especially by a young Turkish girl. She was not at all the type I had expected; not veiled and retiring, but with close-bobbed hair and more like a tomboy out of school. The tuition was very modest, the classrooms dingy and the walls covered with paint where generations of students had cleaned their palettes and brushes. We were sorry for our models, who often sat or stood shivering as they posed, and we students always took up a collection at the end of each week to add to their meager wages.

At the Grande Chaumiere, Messieurs Prinet and Vallant alternated in giving us criticisms. One of our models was a young French negress, a dancer, a beautiful lithe figure, temporarily out of employment, so she ventured to pose. But posing was the hardest work in the world for her. She wiggled and sighed. The instructor constantly had to admonish her to "hold the pose." But when the five minutes "rest" was called she was on her toes instantly, with all her pent up energy, dancing over the platform and about the room. Other classes poured into our room to join us sketching her swift graceful actions. She had her own method of straightening out her short kinky hair; holding a metal comb in the door of the big pot-bellied stove to heat it and after trying it a few times with her fingers, she would run it through her hair. For a short time her hair was straight.

At noontime the students went out for a simple lunch, something hot—usually croissantes and coffee—chiefly to such places as the Dome, the Rotunde, or Chez Rosalie. The first two are well known to all visitors to the Left Bank. Chez Rosalie was strictly for students. A small place with three or four large tables, its walls covered with students' paintings given in lieu of money for meals. A stove in one corner of the room served both for cooking and heat. Candles stuck in bottles on the tables gave light, for it was dark at times even at noon. The food was good, though later Mr. Mac Lennan, who sometimes joined me there, came to suspect that the tasty steaks were not beef but horsemeat.

Exhibitions, studio parties, artists' fairs on Boul, Raspail and other facets of students' life, were part of our Paris experience. It was a time of change and of new approaches to painting and music. Mr. Mac Lennan, who was studying French and attending lectures at the Sorbonne, scouted around during his spare time to see which of the many exhibitions I would find most rewarding. These we visited on Saturdays and Sundays. So in addition to the treasures in the museums we saw much of the work of the cubists and post-impressionist artists.

We were fortunate in meeting Harry Hewes and his foster sister, Baroness Romaine, both well acquainted in Paris. Hewes was correspondent for several American newspapers and was writing daily for them a serial story under the name of Norma Talmadge. He often came to our room in the evenings to read his latest installment and to ask for suggestions for the next. Baroness Romaine was a distinguished American concert pianist who had married a Russian baron. She had an interesting hobby as her recreation after a concert, mixing perfumes—attar of rose, oils of lilac, lily-of-the-valley, and other precious oils, gifts of Turkish, Egyptian and Romanian nobles who had been thrilled by her concerts.

Through Hewes and Romaine, one evening at Zelle's we met Gilbert White, distinguished portrait painter, brother of the author, Stewart Edward White, and famed as one of the best raconteurs in Paris. Later we were also entertained at his studio. Among other delightful affairs was a party in the studio of Alex Warshawsky (brother of Abel Warshawsky and also an outstanding painter) and of Mrs. Warshawsky, illustrator for Paris Vogue and La Femina. They were living in Montmartre in the studio that had once been Courbet's.

One rainy evening when we were browsing around Montmartre, we sought shelter in the cafe Au Mere Catherine on the Place du Tertre, which we had occasionally visited. A musician was playing selections from the operas on a trench organ; the customers, mostly French neighbors, were leisurely sipping their wine while listening to the music or playing cards. Having my sketching materials, as usual, I took the opportunity of sketching a few of the interesting types. When they discovered what I was doing, some of them became very shy. Later, we dropped into Au Singe Qui Lits, a bookstand adjacent to the cafe, as we had done several times before and were shown by the proprietor who was a friend of Utrillo, some of that artist's sketches and small paint-

Audience Likes Studio Play, Reviewer Doesn't

By Max Tadlock

On Saturday night a capacity audience gave full evidence of enjoying Jean Anouilh's comedy Time Remembered, the current production at The Studio. This review is in effect then a minority report.

To this reviewer Time Remembered is but additional proof of the dearth of good plays to open on Broadway in recent years. Even though it attracted Helen Hayes to the role of the Duchess in the New York cast, this play lacks the substance to make it significant and the humor to make it a strong comedy. As a result, the excellent performances in the local production seem to this reviewer to be an unfortunate expenditure of time and talent.

However, most Peninsula theater-goers want an opportunity to see those plays which have had a successful run on Broadway, no matter the critics' statements on their excellence. The Studio is one of the theaters on the Peninsula which gives us the opportunity to enjoy such dramatic productions and to judge them for ourselves.

The story of Time Remembered concerns the efforts of the Duchess of Pont-Au-Bronc to keep alive for her nephew Prince Albert his one great if fleeting and ridiculous love. To preserve for him the memory of his trysts with his dead loved one, she has reconstructed on the family estate all their meeting places and peopled them with the original waiters, taxi drivers and innkeepers. Because the Prince is losing himself after three years in this dream-world, however, the Duchess then lures a young milliner, Amanda, into playing the role of his beloved ballerina and shocking him back to reality.

The second and final act lets us see how real flesh and blood, if lovely enough, can overcome memories of the past.

Despite the difficulties of reducing the action and the sets to fit the tiny stage at The Studio, William Glaves, who designed and directed the show, captured the Alice-in-Wonderland aura the play called for. And he had an excellent cast to work with.

Tricia Beattie as the lovely Amanda gave a sensitive and delightful performance. Her ability to project the changing feelings of the young milliner was refreshingly devoid of the usual ingenue cliches.

In the role of the Duchess, the always excellent Ruth Warshawsky exhibited another facet of her fine talent. Better known for her serious dramatic roles, she played the sometimes worldly and sometimes other-worldly old woman with zest and the commedienne's timing.

The role of Prince Albert calls for a strikingly handsome and athletic man. Erie Barnes filled this role most acceptably. Not only was he well cast physically but Mr. Barnes performed admirably as the bored but frustrated Prince, who by virtue of his birth and personal tastes is denied the usual outlets for his energy. High point of the play is his soliloquy on the varying levels of boredom.

Robert Tenuta and Gene Williamson, through some clever doubling up, play the remaining five roles—those of the butler, headwaiter, ice cream man, taxi driver and innkeeper. Through these characters, Anouilh pokes a bit of fun at the "independent" French worker.

Time Remembered will run until further notice Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays, and curtain time is 8:30 o'clock.

Capt. Fritzsche

Captain Edward Henry Fritzsche (USCG ret.) died on January 2 in his sleep in his home at Lincoln Street and Eighth Avenue. He was the brother of Major General Carl Fritzsche, commanding general of Fort Ord.

Captain Fritzsche was born in Cleveland, Ohio, 63 years ago. He attended East Technical High School in that city before joining the U. S. Coast Guard Reserve during World War I as a lieutenant. He attended the Coast Guard Academy in Connecticut from 1920-23 and was commissioned as an ensign. Through World War II he was on active duty and, as commodore, took a task force into Normandy.

In 1946 Captain Fritzsche was retired because of physical disability. The same year he came with his wife, Louise, to live in Carmel and remained here except for two years, 1949 and 1950, when he studied at Ohio State University.

Besides his wife and brother, General Fritzsche, he is survived by a sister, Mrs. E. L. Zitzman of Cleveland and another brother A. E. Fritzsche of Bedford, Ohio.

Funeral services were held on Monday in the Presidio of San Francisco Chapel. Burial was in the Presidio Cemetery.

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

Ruth Galvin Thornburg, Librarian

Now that the New Year has come and the rains with it, let's settle down to a few months of good reading. Begin with The March of Archeology by C. W. Ceram. You remember him for his Gods, Graves, and Scholars. This last book is a masterpiece for the layman, being almost a picture book, but with explanatory text so interesting that the reader cannot put down the book until it is finished. The illustrations are fascinating and those reproduced in color are beautiful.

Not too long ago we mentioned in this piece that soon the picture biography of Eleanor Roosevelt would be here. It has come and is ready for you. The title is Eleanor Roosevelt, Her Life in Pictures. Most interesting.

The Morgan twins, Thelma and Gloria, made their bows to society in 1921. Much of the time since then they have been in the news in one way or another. Now they have jointly done their autobiography and entitled it Double Exposure. Of more interest to most of us is the biography of two other women, written by Maurice Levaillant and entitled The Passionate Exiles. The two women are Germaine de Stael and Juliette Recamier. The scene is Europe, the time the years following the French Revolution. Through these pages move the great and the near great of the day. This is history as seen through the eyes of two of the famous women of the times.

Back about the time of the first World War, the whole world seemed to be dancing the routines dreamed up by a pair of young Americans, Irene and Vernon Castle. Vernon was killed in the war, but Irene went on to make movies, and fashion history, and more dances, and still later to be featured in news stories because of her love for animals and her work in animal shelters. Her autobiography is just out and is entitled Castles in the Air. Irene Castle is a charming and talented woman. Her book is witty and full of interest.

While we are on this witty line of thought, we have the newest from the typewriter of Richard Armour. This one is called It All Started With Marx, an Irreverent History of Communism. The book jacket says that "Dr. Armour dissects the Comrades with glee and a sharp pen." He certainly does. You'll love it.

We have fiction, too. Check the posted list for new titles.

Carmel P.T.A. Offers Exceptional Program To The Public Tuesday

Drawing upon recent experience, three educators will speak on the school systems in China, nationalist and communist; in Great Britain, and in Germany, at the elementary P. T. A. meeting Tuesday night at 8:00 o'clock in Sunset cafeteria.

The public is invited.

Dr. Ting Su, Mandarin department of the Army Language School; Ernst Reimschneider, German instructor at the A. L. S., and Dr. Norman Oleson, physics department of the Navy Postgraduate School, are the speakers.

Dr. Su, who received his bachelor's degree at Peiping Normal School, his master's at Columbia, and an E. D. D. at the University of Indiana, was commissioner of education from 1947 to 1949 for Sui Yun Province. He will discuss educational systems under the old and new regimes on China mainland and in Formosa.

Professor Ernst Reimschneider, a graduate of the University of Berlin, and for six years advisor on education to the U. S. Commissioner in Germany, will speak for German schools.

Dr. Norman Oleson, physicist at the Postgraduate School, has recently returned from sabbatical study at Queens University at Belfast, Ireland, where his children attended English schools.

Mrs. Floyd Harber, P. T. A. president, told the Pine Cone she is exceedingly pleased with the work of Mrs. George Hahn and her program committee. The Carmel Elementary P. T. A. has won a state award for the high caliber of its programs this year.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

How prayer and watchfulness bring freshness and newness into human experience will be a topic presented at Christian Science services Sunday.

"Sacrament" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon. Passages to be read from the Bible include the following from Psalms (51:10): "Create in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a right spirit within me."

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will be read the following (4:17-22): "Simply asking that we may love God will never make us love Him; but the longing to be better and holier, expressed in daily watchfulness and in striving to assimilate more of the divine character, will mould and fashion us anew, until we awake in His likeness."

The Golden Text is from Hebrews (13:16): "To do good and to communicate forget not: for with such sacrifices God is well pleased."

Mrs. Lyman

Mrs. Elizabeth Cornelia Lyman died on Saturday in a local rest home after a long period of failing health. For the past ten years she had lived in Hatton Fields with her daughter, Mrs. Janice B. Wood. Mrs. Lyman was born in Chicago, Illinois, on November 16, 1871.

Besides Mrs. Wood, survivors are another daughter, Mrs. Glen Seitz of Carmel; three brothers, E. C. Will of Chicago, George W. Will of Sullivan, Illinois, and Raymond L. Will of Pasadena; a grandson, George Everhart of Downey; and a granddaughter, Mrs. James D. Freeman of San Francisco.

Funeral services were held on Tuesday in Pasadena. Burial was in Forest Lawn Memorial Park.

Louise Clark

Louise Edwards Clark, widow of Colonel Francis W. Clark, (U. S. Field Artillery) and mother of Miss Louise Clark of Carmel, died on Monday in her home on Dolores Street near Thirteenth Avenue, after a long illness.

Mrs. Clark was born in Walla Walla, Washington in 1884. Her father, the late Colonel Francis A. Edwards (U. S. Cavalry) was stationed at several American frontier posts where she lived. Later Mrs. Clark accompanied her parents to Rome when Colonel Edwards became military attache at the United States Embassy. She was 18 at the time, an artist, and spent the next four years in Italy studying sculpture, lace work, bookbinding and the tooling of leather.

In 1908 she married the then Lieutenant F. W. Clark. During her subsequent life on various Army posts, Mrs. Clark used her artistic talents for home and party decorations. She learned how to weave Oriental rugs and was invited to exhibit her miniature creations of historical scenes at the Columbus Museum of Fine Arts in Ohio.

In 1939 she came to live in Carmel with her husband who had retired. Later he was recalled to active duty as commandant at the Presidio. During her years in Carmel, Mrs. Clark recreated the medieval art form of beeswax miniature portraits. By experimentation she discovered how to prepare, color and work in this medium. No texts were available to help her. Her beeswax miniatures were exhibited locally and in San Francisco.

Private services were held on Tuesday in Mission Mortuary. Final services and burial will be in Arlington National Cemetery, Virginia, where both Mrs. Clark's husband and father are buried.

Friends wishing to honor the memory of Mrs. Clark may do so in the form of donations to the Monterey County Cancer Society, Box 1028, Monterey.

Richard Hale

Richard William Hale died on January 2 in a local rest home after a long period of failing health. Since the death of his wife, Minnie A. Hale, in 1952, he had lived in Carmel Valley with his daughter, Mrs. Bertha Anderson. He had lived on the Peninsula for 12 years and prior to his retirement was a civilian employe at Fort Ord. He was born on June 14, 1869, in Huntington, West Virginia.

Besides his daughter, Mr. Hale is survived by two sons, James A. Hale of Monterey and Jack A. Hale of Kalispell, Montana; another daughter, Mrs. Charles Fairchild of International Falls, Minnesota; six grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held on Monday in the Paul Mortuary with the Reverend Walter Scott of the First Baptist Church of Monterey officiating. Inurnment was in the El Carmelo Columbarium.

Chester L. Magee

Dr. Chester Lea Magee died on January 2 in a local hospital after a short illness. He had lived here since 1946 and was a familiar Carmel personality recognized by the Scottish bonnet he wore. Before his retirement in 1945 he practiced medicine in Southern California for 40 years and was a member of the first four-year class to graduate from Stanford University.

Dr. Magee was born in Prairie City, Illinois, on March 21, 1870, the son of Dr. Thomas L. Magee, youngest surgeon in the Union Army during the Civil War. In 1881 the Magee family moved to California. In 1891 Dr. Magee and his brother, De Los Magee, were the first students to engage rooms in Encina Hall, the men's residence at newly-opened Stanford University. Dr. Magee obtained his B.A. degree in 1895 and his master's degree the following year. He completed the study of medicine at Johns Hopkins University in 1899. In 1901 he returned to California and practiced general medicine in Los Angeles for 10 years before moving to San Gabriel where he specialized in the practice of obstetrics and pediatrics until 1945. His marriage to Miss Ednah Ballantyne took place in Los Angeles on June 20, 1907.

Dr. Magee was a member of Beta Theta Pi fraternity at Stanford University and later of the American Medical Association. He was also a consulting physician for the Southern Pacific Railway both during his years of active practice and after his retirement. During World War II he served as a surgeon with the 8th Infantry.

Following his retirement he built a house at Torres and Eighth Streets. He was an enthusiastic gardener and an accomplished pianist and an ardent chess player. Dr. Magee also designed and handicrafted ceramics and studied Spanish as a student in the Carmel Adult School program during his years of retirement here.

He is survived by his wife, Ednah; a son, Dr. Thomas L. Magee of Monterey; three grandsons and two granddaughters.

Private funeral services were held on Monday afternoon at the Dorney and Farlinger Memorial Chapel. Burial was in Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno.

31 MEN WHO DON'T WANT TO RIDE A MOTOR BIKE

Chief of Police Clyde Klaumann now has 31 applications for the vacancy on his force. All want to be policemen but none of them want to ride the motor bike around town marking tires and writing tickets for overtime parkers.

When it was pointed out to Chief Klaumann that apparently women don't mind being hated, judging by the number that are employed for part-time parking patrol in other cities, he said he'd be glad to hire a woman for the job in Carmel but he needs someone on the motor bike who can also serve for relief police duties.

HAPPIEST MAN IN TOWN

In eighth heaven, Art Plaxton, city tax collector, is riding in a little white cloud—the only white Fiat Spider in the western United States.

Long a lover of sports cars, and an amateur racer when his home was in Oregon, Mr. Plaxton has been studying, with an eye to possession, the points of various sports cars, domestic and foreign, for the last two years. His choice arrived from Turin, Italy, January 2. "A Christmas present that my wife and I made to each other," he says. "She likes it, too."

Cynthia Cox, Jon Menand Wed

A romance ,which began at Carmel High School and continued on Oregon State College campus, ended in a Christmas vacation marriage on December 29 when Cynthia Margaret Cox became the bride of Jon Eldridge Menand. Poinsettias and red carnations, mingled with greenery, decorated All Saints' Episcopal Church for the ceremony, performed by the rector, the Reverend David Hill. Robert M. Forbes, church organist, played the wedding music.

Cynthia was given in marriage by her brother, Graves Cox of Carmel. Seed pearl embroidery edged the scalloped neckline of her white lace dress which had a fitted bodice and a full waltz-length skirt. Bands of similar pearls formed the small cap from which fell her shoulder-length veil of tulle illusion. She carried a white prayer book with a cascade arrangement of small white orchids and lilies of the valley. For "something borrowed" she wore a pearl necklace belonging to her mother, Mrs. Louis Cox, of Carmel.

Mrs. Richard Small (Barbara Mitchell), a Carmel High School classmate, was matron of honor wearing a bright red satin dress. Bands of the same satin held her matching face veil in place and she carried a bouquet of white carnations and holly.

Joan Cummings of Salem, Oregon, and Anne Smith of Corvallis, Oregon, both Delta Delta Delta sorority sisters of the bride, were bridesmaids. They wore gowns of bright green satin, matching veils and shoes, and carried bouquets of red carnations and holly.

Sam Smith of Carmel was best man. Ushers were Gene McMullen and Tom Appel, Beta Theta Pi fraternity brothers of the groom at Oregon State College and James Hallett, former Carmel High School classmate, now living in San Francisco.

Mrs. Cox attended her daughter's marriage in a beige and green wool print Empire style gown accented with a green feather hat and a pale yellow orchid corsage.

Mrs. Mina Menand of Carmel, mother of the groom, wore a rose pink knitted dress with matching hat and white orchid corsage.

White carnations surrounded the wedding cake on the bridal table at the breakfast following the ceremony. Highlands Inn, gay with holiday decorations, was the location. Guests were the wedding party and members of the bride's and groom's families.

The bride changed to a turquoise blue wool dress, small black hat and black shoes, before leaving with her husband for a honeymoon at Lake Tahoe. They continued north at the end of a week for Corvallis, Oregon, where Jon is majoring in forestry at Oregon State College, and Cynthia is an education major at the same school. Both graduate next December. Jon graduated from Carmel High School in 1955, Cynthia the following year.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. James Sherman of La Canada, and cousins of the bride's mother, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Lemos of Daly City, Mrs. Horace Wilcox and Miss Marcella Coughlin of Piedmont. The groom's father, Robert Menand of Pacific Grove also attended the marriage.

Phyllis Burnette Engaged

A telegram of congratulations and best wishes, fastened on the hall mirror at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gabriel Harrison Burnette on December 27, announced to arriving guests at a holiday party the engagement of their only daughter, Phyllis Ann, to Denman Powell Gambill, Jr.

The young people met in Claremont. Phyllis is a senior student at Scripps College and her fiance graduated in June from Claremont Men's College, an adjoining school in the Southern California city. He has just completed six months' Army Reserve duty at Fort Ord and will enroll at the University of California in Berkeley next semester to study for a master's degree in business administration. After Phyllis and Denny are married in August, she, too, will enter Cal to obtain teaching credentials.

Phyllis attended Sunset School and Santa Catalina School for Girls before entering Scripps. She will receive her bachelor's degree in June with history and economics as her major subjects.

Guests at the announcement party were Phyllis' Carmel friends, home from various universities for the Christmas holidays, and a few family friends. Her fiance's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Denman Powell Gambill of San Marino were present, also his grandfather, Delbert A. Clithero, a Chicago attorney, whose home is in Oak Park, Illinois. Unable to be present were Denny's twin brothers, Delbert Clithero Gambill and Robert Powell Gambill, of San Marino.

Beatnik Birthday Party

Mrs. Sidney L. Williams was invited to a formal dinner party on Wednesday evening, her birthday, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roderick N. Wilson. When Mrs. Williams arrived, she found she was guest of honor at a far from formal affair arranged by 30 friends. Keynote was the dining table centerpiece. A dressmaker's form was the base of the creation, a Beatnik lady, who had a horrid mask for a face, topped by a dilapidated hat. A cigarette hung from a long holder in her mouth, a straggly fur boa wreathed her neck and her shoulders were huddled in a black velvet cape which had seen better days. Other party decorations were in keeping with the decrepit Beatnik lady. Mrs. Williams was made to feel that, though a little older, she, in her formal gown, had nothing to fear from time.

Dr. Dunn is a psychologist, at present co-ordinator of professional services for the Southern California branch of the Devereux School. Wayfarer Auxiliary Elects Officers

Election and installation of officers for the coming year and reports of activities of the past year occupied members of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Church of the Wayfarer at the annual meeting on Tuesday afternoon. The president, the secretary and the treasurer were re-elected to their respective offices. The treasurer's full detailed report brought special applause for Mrs. Alma Cairns, who has served for several years in that office. Dr. E. Leigh Mudge conducted the installation, stressing the spiritual aspect of the work and the importance of the officers' cooperation in promoting the activities of the church.

Mrs. Florence Venn, chairman of the nominating committee, presented the list of nominees which was approved by the members, as follows: President, Mrs. Beata Christie; first vice president, Mrs. Ruth Fletcher; second vice president, Mrs. Katherine Kindall; secretary, Mrs. Catherine Ramsey; treasurer, Mrs. Cairns; circle chairman, One, Mrs. Ruth Hammond; Two, Mrs. Ethel Kennedy; Four, Mrs. Grace Harold. For the time being, no chairman has been secured for Circle Three. Mrs. Christie pledged cooperation and devotion to their duties by herself and the new corps of leaders. She then announced appointments of committee chairmen for the coming year:

Honorary president, Mrs. Dorothea Gray; cheer, Mrs. Gladys Bolton; devotions, Mrs. Mary Greenwood; overseas relief, Dr. Olive Swezy; hospitality, Miss Maude Hook; leper sewing, Mrs. Olive Mudge; manse, Mrs. Marie Farley; parliamentarian and publicity, Miss L. Lucile Turner.

Following the lead of one of the circles, the Auxiliary decided informally to use the members' own given names as indicating the intimating relationships of the group. The day's meeting followed a pot luck luncheon shared by some 50 members of the organization.

Abernethys Home From Cruise

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Abernethy arrived home on Saturday after a two-weeks' holiday cruise on the Furline to Acapulco. They were pleased to find 14 friends also on the trip, including Mrs. Elsie White, Mrs. Howard Roloff and Paula Roloff and Professor and Mrs. Georges Picard from Carmel.

On arrival in the Mexican harbor, the ship was met by gaily-costumed water skiers who put on a display of their skill. Small boys also came out to meet the vessel and dive for coins thrown to them by the passengers. "Although the hotels in Acapulco are luxurious," Mrs. Abernethy reports, "we lived on the ship while in port."

pool?" queried City Clerk Larry Rose.

"You bet your boots I do," countered Mr. Adams. "I need a permit for a bird bath if it's big enough," he added.

"I love resolutions," said Mr. Rose and read the required resolution which was unanimously passed by the commission. A second motel swimming pool on Junipero Street may now be constructed. The Jade Tree Inn motel, under construction in the block below the Schultz property, has a pool included in its plans.

The Schultz pool will be blocked from public view by a fence and planting required by the planning commission's resolution.

None of the five persons in the planning commission audience opposed extension of the interim zoning ordinance which governs development in C-1 and C-2 zones. The commission unanimously voted to ask the city council to extend it for another year giving as reasons the fact that a zoning map of the central district is now being considered, and, when adopted, will be a permanent zoning ordinance for the business district.

Only change from the original interim ordinance was rewording. Henceforth, density will be considered as a factor made possible by a proposed structure if the structure is also found suitable to the proposed use in the area.

"Aesthetics," explained Commission Chairman Willox referring to new wording.

From there, as it was St. Catherine's Night and a time for celebration, we went to the Djiquite, a Russian restaurant on Boul. Even oldtimers can't recall ocean front cypresses ever before taking the beating they did in Monday's storm. Only persons pleased with the litter of fallen branches, split trunks, and prostrate trees, were those residents on San Antonio and Carmelo Streets who had been trying for some years to have the city trim cypresses on Scenic to improve their view. They don't think it was an "ill wind" on Monday. They are sorry about the smashed roof at the J. J. Brown home, though.

When Ted Fehring went south to officiate as head linesman at the Rose Bowl game he took along Mrs. Fehring and his five daughters, Janet, Jean, Joy, Julie and Joanne. Only member of the family remaining in Carmel was Heidi, the dachshund, left in care of the John Rennels family. Heidi disappeared. John Rennels thought she might have become lonesome and gone home. He checked at the Fehring house. No sign of Heidi. Later in the day Mrs. Rennels went back. Still no sign of the dog. She decided to check the house thoroughly. In a closed bedroom she found Heidi. Somehow the door had closed behind her after she gained entry to the Fehring home, some way. Heidi is no Garbo and she did not "want to be alone."

No person elected or appointed to the Board shall be eligible for appointment as General Manager until fifteen months have elapsed following the term for which he was appointed or elected.

Section 4. HIRING EMPLOYEES

Employees hired by the General Manager shall be on the basis of training and experience. Residence within the district shall not be a requirement of employment. Such employment shall be without a definite term.

QUIET JOYS

I wish that I could paint a wreathing mist
In lyric words, or limn the fragile greys
Of drowsy hills, the shadowed amethyst
And tender rose of dawn's awakening haze.
The One who mingled Nature's potency
Has gone beyond my undeveloped powers
To picture amber grains which seem to flee
Before a gale, and drink its perfumed showers.

I cannot catch the song of larks, the flight
Of bees, the tinkling bells of gentle rain
Within a song, or tell the tale of night
When stars retreat and moon-struck winds explain
Their faith to pagan trees . . . yet I can sing
The rich content such quiet joys will bring.

—LAURA JANET LARSON

PEACE - MORNING

Peace is a thrust of new and spicy branch.
Each molecule of cream-gold light is peace.
Electric rivers seem to say "My peace
I give to you." Dusk-tipped diapasons
Of morning lay their timeless graphs upon
The heart. This day lies like a white silk scarf
Laid out for prayer, flecked through with tangerine
And silken thread. In the sheer and flowing light
Peace is a flute that greens the way: the white
And fathomless white rose that brims the hour.

—DULCIE M. GAWNE

MIGRATION

A whisper stirs across the swale
Where dune-grass grows by sheltered bays:
In the half-bronze glow of fading light
The veil of early, darkening haze
Heralds the swift approach of night.
Dark shadows hover small pools that lie
Almost hidden — each reedy nest
Broods young marsh denizens, yet to fly
On their first migration's unknown quest;
Yet unafraid, frail ones of earth
Will rise in the twilight toward far-flung seas;
Leaving the homeland of their birth
For the glory of heaven's vast mysteries.

—GRACE R. BALLARD

Citizens Appointed For Grade School Curriculum Study

The Carmel Board of School Trustees has announced the citizens committee which will assist the elementary teachers' committee in the final draft of a course of study for Carmel elementary schools. The members appointed are: Mrs. Hal Sherman, Carmelo Mothers Club; Sydney Kalmbach of the Naval Postgraduate School; Mrs. Howard Benedict, Woods School P.T.A. and Mrs. Floyd Harber, President of the Carmel Elementary School P.T.A.

A committee representing each grade level has been working during the fall semester. This committee is composed of Mrs. Kay Goines, kindergarten, Woods School; Mrs. Claire Duygou, first grade, River School; Mrs. Helen Larkey, second grade, Carmelo School; Mrs. Anna Kohner, third grade, River School; Mrs. Terry Jones, fourth grade, Tularcitos School; Mrs. Vickie Birdsall, fifth grade, Woods School;

Miss Diane DuBois, sixth grade, Sunset School; Mrs. Sarah Sproull, seventh grade, Sunset School; and Neil Jensen, eighth grade, Sunset School.

Orville Rogers, William Malleck and Richard O'Connell, administrators, are on the committee. Harry Wolcott, vice principal of River School, is the recorder. This project is under the direction of Miss Eleanor Crouch, curriculum coordinator.

A committee of four teachers representing the various schools and grade levels will meet with the citizens' committee. Stuart Mitchell, district superintendent, will meet with the combined group, as will Miss Crouch and Mr. Wolcott. This committee will review the material which is compiled by the teachers' committee and all of the elementary teachers. The Carmel Unified School District must adopt a course of study of its own on July 1, 1959, when it achieves the status of a city district. Dr. Verna White, assistant superintendent of Monterey County, is a consultant on the work.

ment, $600, provided for in budget; decided to turn in the badly performing police cars on two new patrol cars. Usual procedure is to buy one a year rather than two. Decided to buy a new emergency generator for the police department. When power goes off in a storm, police need it to operate lights and radio communication system; and the fire department has a problem to electrify the fire siren. Told Councilman Allen Knight and his committee to go on negotiating for the land purchase of lots at Carpenter and Ocean for a natural park with the intention of working out a piecemeal purchase deal, buy one lot now and the rest when they find a surplus at the end of the fiscal year, July 1.

Mayor John Chitwood told Francis Whitaker if he wanted to run the council, come on up and have a chair. Francis was objecting to the planning commission's recommendation of the continued use of gully park lands for city trash dumping. The mayor was unsympathetic to him, and when Whitaker asked for an expression of opinion of individual council members, the mayor growled and gaveled.

Council instructed city attorney to prepare for next month's meeting a resolution of intention for an assessment district for improving Santa Rita Street between Fourth and Fifth; First between Torres and Del Monte; Eighth Avenue between Junipero and Santa Fe. Object is to browbeat property owners along these streets who do not want them improved to come in on a co-operative project.

Robert Stanton was given permission to continue with his paving project for parking on Ocean Avenue between Monte Verde and Casanova.

Request for fire protection for Junipero Serra School was held over for committee study.

Home From Harvard, Stanford

Mr. and Mrs. George Herbert of Carmel Valley said goodbye to two of their children this weekend. Their son, George, flew back to Harvard University on Saturday and their daughter, Lucie Anne, left to return to Stanford University on Sunday. Still at home are John, a student at Monterey Peninsula College, and Annabelle who attends Carmel High School.

George Herbert is a junior at Harvard, majoring in physical sciences. Before leaving to vacation here he was a member of the stage crew for the Players of Leverett House's Christmas production of Savanarola, a five-act play.

Seventh. The telephone company crew pulled her car out with their truck.

Mrs. Jean Geisen, blinded by the downpour, drove her car into a tree down in Camino Real, south of Ocean, with extensive damage.

Mrs. Anna Shipley notified the police that a limb from a city tree had crashed into her garage roof.

Wires were down in the middle of the street on Carmelo between Twelfth and Thirteenth, at Lincoln and Seventh, at Lincoln and Eighth, at Junipero and Fourth. Sparks fanned from limb-shorted wires at Monte Verde and Tenth.

Limbs were across power lines at San Antonio and Fourth, Guadalupe and Fourth.

One of eight trees falling in Del Monte Forest cut the power that runs the amplifier for the TV cable antenna, and Carmel was without TV from 3:00 o'clock Monday until late Tuesday afternoon.

Power and telephone failures varied about town from an hour and a half to a day and a half.

Schools had their troubles. At the high school, asphalt shingles flew off the middle wing in three-foot strips. Students had to get along without heat or light when the electricity went off. Sewage disposal came to a stand-still at the gym when the electric pump stopped. Woods school was without lights and heat, and in the superintendent's office nearby, clerks had to sharpen pencils and recall their arithmetic when the computing machines stopped operating.

Cross winds developed a serious leak at River School with rain-damaging floor and walls.

Public and private property damage can be fixed. Only the trees are an irreparable loss.

Faw Freeway Talk Jan. 24 At Sunset Open To Public

Claude T. Faw, highway authority and Carmel resident, will discuss California Division of Highways' plans for the Carmel Hill freeway on January 24 at 8:00 o'clock in the evening in Sunset school, according to Rear Admiral C. W. Fisher (USN ret.), president of the Carmel Citizens Committee. The public is invited.

Yesterday the State Department of Public Works awarded a contract for the project to Stokes Construction Company of San Gabriel at a cost of $969,246.

Construction of the interchange at the top of Carmel Hill has top priority and work is expected to begin this month. A four-lane highway starting at the south city limits of Monterey and extending to Carpenter Street is included in the project which, it is hoped, will be completed this year, according to A. M. Nash, district engineer for the Division of Highways.
